What Are the Odds of Surviving a Motorcycle Crash?

A dark-clad motorcyclist on a black bike.

Roughly 95% of motorcycle accidents are survived. But 80% of motorcycle riders involved in a crash suffer serious injuries. In other words, only 1 in 5 riders escape a crash without suffering serious or fatal injuries.

You can increase your odds of survival by doing the following:

1. Riding sober
2. Minding the speed limit
3. Wearing a federally-approved helmet
4. Wearing protective gear
5. Being predictable and visible

We can't control reckless drivers, bad weather, or poor road conditions. But we can take steps to protect ourselves should the worst happen.
